Today's fast-moving, complex legal environment puts special demands on legal teams to track both the deadlines and requirements of individual matters, as well as the constantly changing rules within a myriad of jurisdictions. Absolute accuracy is essential to avoid malpractice. Used in conjunction with a calendaring or docketing solution, a firm can save significant staff time and reduce risk by eliminating the need to manually key in thousands of individual calendar entries. Automated rules generate calendar entries, leaving attorneys and staff more time to focus on other client issues. The rules are continually updated, so attorneys can be assured of tracking all vital deadlines related to their cases.
